Annotated Portfolio

The sites that follow are examples of work I have designed and/or developed over fifteen-years'-worth of Front-End Internet development experience. I have additional examples which can be provided upon request, but feel this selection provides a broad spectrum of the technical and business skills used in the software development life cycle.

If you would like further information regarding my previous works, please do not hesitate to write david@davidpate.com, or, better yet, allow me to elaborate in person.
